PETER FERRY DEFENDS CITY ASSESSMENT

Declares County Has Not Discriminated Against Glendale in Valuation

GRAND VIEW TAX LOSS

Chamber Decides to Purchase 1500 Illustrated Booklets for Christmas

Glendale is not being discriminated against in the way of property assessments according to a report made by Peter L. Ferry to the directors of the chamber of commerce, Tuesday noon. Mr. Ferry was chairman of a committee, the duty of which was to look into the matter of the increase in taxes and the higher assessment rate.

"Mr. John Hobbs of the assessor's office informs me that this city is not being discriminated against in the way of assesment, and tax increase," said Mr. Ferry. "The fact of the matter is that the assessment rate of Glendale has remained practically stationary for the past several years, while the rate of other cities of Southern California have been increased from time to time. It is a fact that Glendale's rate was increased more this year than some of the other cities of this section, but taken as a whole the Glendale taxes are no higher and the assessment rate no greater than in other cities in these parts.

"Furthermore, Mr. Hobbs states that the report that Los Angeles secured the increased assessment rate in Glendale so that the people here would be more favorable to going into that city, is entirely false, according to Mr. Hobbs. It was demonstrated to me that Glendale people at this time are paying no more than they should."

Superintendent of Schools Richardson D. White stated that although the Grand View district has been in the city of Glendale for the three years the county is still paying the city of Burbank the school money for that district that should be given to Glendale.

"I wish to call attention to the fact," said City Manager Reeves, "that the city was not responsible for the increase in the assessment rate and that it did not authorize an increased rate."

The matter of whether the city of Glendale should provide a float for entrance in the Pasadena tournament of roses in New Year's day, was brought up by President Hollister, who asked for the opinions of the board members in regard to this proposition. It was generally agreed that Glendale should be represented in some manner, but the proposition of Glendale spending a large amount of money for a float this year was frowned upon. It was moved by Director Lusby that a float to cost not more than $750 should be built and entered in the rose tournament. This was seconded and passed, the idea being to confer with the other civic bodies of the city as well as the city council to each member of the chamber see what they thought of the matter.

By unanimous vote it was decided to purchase 1500 illustrated booklets containing eighteen photograps, showing different views of Glendale, one of these to be sent to each member of the chamber about Christmas with the suggestion that after it has been looked over it be sent to some friend in the east. These are being secured from the Artchrome Lithographing company of Los Angeles at a cost of 6 cents each.

John L. Chesnutt, representing the Perfect Castor Manufacturing company, appeared before the board and after describing his product and his proposition, stated that he is hopeful of locating a factory in Glendale. He said that his firm is experiencing an unprecedented growth and that the prospects for the future are exceedingly bright. Ten million castors are sold in the United States every year, according to Mr. Chesnutt and his firm proposes to get its share of this business. He says he has the only perfect castor on the market and one that is practically beyond competition so far as the castors that are on the market at this time are concerned.

VALLEY CHAMBERS DEFER MEETING

The Associated Chambers of Commerce of San Fernando Valley, whose meeting was scheduled for the night of November 21, has been postponed to December 5.

The meeting will be held at Tankershim and each city is supposed to "pull off" some stunt at this meeting. It is expected that there will be about 200 present.

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce is preparing to put on a stunt to represent Glendale.

Are There Any Swap Fans in Glendale?

A few more wide awake Glendalians moved into the Glendale Press "Swap Colony" today.

Knight & Lewis, 226 South Brand, have a two-phase, clear-voiced, mule, that will "stand without hitching" they want to pass on. He's real affectionate and enjoys eating with the rest of the family. They'll take anything for this "diamond in the rough."

Warren, 300½ South Brand, wants to swap a 5-room home for smaller place or vacant lot. Here's your chance. He has several others.

E. P. Ripley Co., 200 West Broadway, wants to get rid of an established business, invoice $10,000, ranch wanted.

H. B. Yakel, 402 North Brand, will swap equity in new home for vacant. He also has vacant in Illinois he'll swap for anything.

Listen to this bark! Sullivan, real estate, 112 South Brand, has two cute little Aierdale pups he wants to place as protectors in a couple of homes in Glendale. These babies are real live wires, full of pep and are guaranteed to show anyone a good time. Will take most anything.

Do you want a ranch? W. E. Mercer, 624 East Broadway, has a farm in Lankershim they want to trade for a home in Glendale. Come on, you would-be hayseeds, get busy!

Roy D. King also leaped into the swap column today along with N. H. Stanley. Both would swap the earth.

HI SCHOOL PLANS ARE ACCEPTED BY BOARD

Rigid Policy of Chaperonage at School Dances Is Instituted

The most important action taken by trustees of Glendale high at their meeting Tuesday night was the formal acceptance of revised plans for the new school plant as presented by Frederick Ashley from the office of Architect John C. Austin, based on an expenditure of $600,000, with the understanding that the cost of the building should not exceed that sum including an allowance of $50,000 for furnishings.

There was discussion of the ruling of the attorney general on a suit brought against school trustees seeking to make them responsible for injuries occurring on school grounds, the attorney general holding that they are responsible where criminal negligence in taking care of school equipment is shown. The board instructed Principal Moyse to submit to it a monthly report showing the condition of school equipment and gymnasium apparatus that its members may be kept informed of such conditions.

The matter of school dances was also discussed and a policy of rigid chaperonage was adopted with the understanding that the young people in charge of such parties shall be required to submit written acceptances of invitations to act as patrons and chaperones from at least five parents, five teachers and one trustees; also that three annual parties shall be allowed, a senior dance, a junior dance and a farewell at the end of the year.

The Friday following Thanksgiving was made a school holiday and the board voted to give the usual week's holiday between Christmas and New Year's.

Mrs. Moyse was granted leave of absence to accompany Principal Moyse when he goes to Oakland to attend the convention of school superintendents that she may have opportunity to study the new high schools at Berkeley and Oakland which have been built under the supervision of the department of education of the state university.

Favorable action was taken on the request of the local welfare bureau that Thanksgiving contributions by the student body take the form of money rather than supplies.

CASHING CHECKS IS SUBJECT AT CREDIT MEET

Archie Parker Delivers Interesting Paper on the Topic

About 50 members attended the weekly noon-day meeting and luncheon of the Glendale Credit association, held Monday at the chamber of commerce.

Archie Parker read a very interesting paper on "Cashing Checks." The committee on badges presented the association with a beautiful mahogany board on which to keep the badges after each meeting. Guests were also invited in to the offices of the Credit association to see the new safe. Aside from the regular routine of business, this completed the meeting.

NEW BANK TO OPEN SATURDAY

Community Savings and Commercial at 1726 San Fernando Road

TO WELCOME VISITORS

Need for Institution in the District Is Met by Local Financiers

The new Community Savings and Commercial Bank will open its doors to the public on Saturday, November 18th at nine o'clock in the morning and will stay open until nine at night in order to give all its friends and well-wishers an opportunity to visit the new institution and to make their initial deposit.

The new bank's building at 1726 San Fernando Road has been equipped with all the modern banking facilities so that its customers may feel sure that here they will obtain a banking service of the highest type as well as interested personal attention from the very initial day.

The necessity for a bank near this location has been apparent for some time, and with such men as Mr. Lee and his associates behind the institution it is sure that this need will be filled in a very satisfactory manner. The people of the immediate vicinity as well as those further away who will come under the influence of the new bank are to be congratulated on having such able, efficient and interested aid as the Community Savings and Commercial Bank will offer to help further the interests and welfare of the entire community.

The opening of the Community Savings and Commercial Bank is one of the most noteworthy additions Glendale could receive, and its importance is recognized by the bank which plans to present each first day depositor with a lasting and artistic souvenir in the form of a beautiful and useful silver Artpoint pencil.

MRS. MARY FRASER STRUCK BY AUTO

Mrs. Mary B. Fraser of 512 West California was rather badly injured this forenoon in an automobile accident at the corner of Brand and Colorado. She had just stepped from a machine and started for the street car. A young man approaching in another machine, who was looking backward at another he had just left off at the corner, did not see her in time to avoid the accident. Her left foot was very badly crushed. She was rushed to the Glendale sanitarium by the driver of the car and will remain there for treatment.

GLENDALE MAIL HAS TOO MANY DEPOTS

Chamber of Commerce Would Put Glendale, Humboldt County, Out of Business

The chamber of commerce is not willing that there should be more than one "Glendale" in California. Not that it is afraid of competition or anything of the kind, but it is said that two cities of the same name in one state causes confusion so far as mail, freight, and even passenger delivery are concerned.

But how is relief to be secured? There is a Glendale in Los Angeles county and another in Humboldt county. Mail and freight matter and sometimes passengers, destined for one city, are sent to another. This must be brought to an end—but how?

The following letter, which leaves the Glendale C. of C. pretty much up in the air, was read at the chamber directors' meeting Monday noon:

"Your letter of October 31, regarding the confusion which has arisen from the fact that there are two towns in California by the name of "Glendale," was duly received.

"I immediately took the matter up with the postoffice department and they informed me that the department does not have authority to change the name of the office in Humbolt county, as it is not an independent postoffice, but is served through Blue Lake, California. It is, therefore, up to the citizens of Humbolt county to have the name changed and thus eliminate the confusion."

This letter was reecived from Walter Lineberger, congressman from this district at Washington.

COMMUNITY SERVICE MEANS SOLUTION OF YOUTH'S PROBLEMS

The National Community Service, with its well considered plan for systematic recreation, comes to Glendale at a time when the parents of the city—some of them newly awakened through the editorials of the Glendale Evening Press—are endeavoring to solve on an individual basis the problems which the Service will work out on a larger scope.

Given a city minus either a Y. M. C. A. plant or a Y. W. C. A. organization, aflow with youth vitality, a maximum of spirit and a minimum of opportunity for its systematic development and exercise, there is no greater problem for the builders of character of the future to meet, at close quarters, in their own homes.

The responsibility for the guidance of the young among us is the greatest we all bear in Glendale. And it lies equally upon the consciences of those not parents as upon those who are. Not only is a citizen a keeper of his brother but he is, also, in the name of the moral health of the city, the keeper of his brother's children.

The children themselves, who are confronted within themselves by forces growing with the sunlight of Southern California are the least blameable in erring, where all of us do not with our wider knowledge, experience and stronger wills, build the way that they shall go, in that period of adolescence so dangerous and full of pitfalls.

The peril of the young was first presented by the Glendale Daily Press last summer, in its editorial, "Sowing the Whirlwind," and related to the danger of the canyons, to the presence of two resorts which flaunted invitation to the young of the city.

The Glendale Daily Press did not stop with a warning. It secured evidence and those places were closed by the sheriff.

Later, it issued a second warning, "When Parents Slumber," which was equally effective.

The ministers of Glendale have fought valiantly with the Glendale Daily Press to bring realization of these matters to the parents and to the young people under their care. They have carried an alarm further than a newspaper could hope to reach, since theirs is the open portal of living conscience.

But neither the Glendale Daily Press nor all the ministers of Glendale can of themselves function as recreational forces for the right direction of the young.

This is the duty and the destiny of the National Community Service, devised as the result of an intensive study of the needs of the young people of today, their encouragement and their protection.

The proper support of the service will mean much to Glendale. More perhaps than can at first be realized.

It will convert Glendale into a city of mutual good will, of mutual help, of understanding and brotherly appreciation in our responsibilities.

It will give Glendale an "old home" day every day in the unification of all our aspirations for a better city, an upright ideal for the future of all our young folks.

For the National Community Service is not confined in its activities to the young people. It reaches out for the entire citizenship of the city, supports, directs and guides a systematic program of recreation for the adults as well as for the young, avoids the confusion of dates that come through individual efforts. It makes for a wide variety of interests and the meeting of all the people in their hours of relaxation. It establishes the home town spirit which is fading from American civic life.

It will put a main street in Glendale.

SCHOOL BOARD IS FOR COMMUNITY SERVICE

Goes on Record for National Organization's Work Here

At the regular meeting of the board of education held Tuesday night considerable routine business was dispatched and several matters discussed, one being the rumor that the improvement by the city of streets abutting on school property will not include the laying of sidewalks. Business Manager Black was instructed to take the matter up with city officials and ascertain the truth or falsity of the report.

Dr. C. F. Stuart and C. W. Ingledue appeared before the board to ask that it deed to the city a strip 12 feet wide from the Cerritos Avenue campus for the widening of Forest Avenue that it may be converted into a suitable outlet from Glendale Avenue to Brand.

The board appointed a committee composed of President Hibben, Manager Black and Dr. P. O. Lucas to look the ground over and report at a special meeting to be held Thursday just before the mass meeting to be held at the Wilson Avenue school.

The board formally indorsed community service and agreed that announcements of its activities should be made in the schools.

The resignation of Mrs. Elsie Burt Van as teacher of the Fifth grade in the Doran street school was accepted.

Miss Elsa Brennaman, supervisor of music, was granted a leave of absence to attend a convention of teachers of music in the public schools to be held at Oakland next week, Thursday and Friday in connection with the convention of school superintendents.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Thursday, fair.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair tonight and Thursday with moderate temperature.

J. C. POLLOCK TO RETIRE FROM AUTO AGENCY BUSINESS

C. H. Hunter, L. A. Wholesale Oldsmobile Dealer, Purchases Agency

C. H. Hunter, formerly wholesale manager for the Wholesale Oldsmobile agency in Los Angeles, has purchased the lease, fixtures and agency for the Oldsmobile and Columbia cars in Glendale from J. C. Pollock at 208-10 West Broadway, and possession will be secured by the new owner on Friday. Mr. Pollock's retirement is made necessary by business interests elsewhere. Mr. Hunter expects to give to the people of Glendale the very best automobile service possible and to maintain the high standard that this agency has established and carried on since coming here.

Mr. Pollock has been in business in Glendale for the past thirteen months. In that time he has sold 150 new and old automobiles, and all of these buyers are satisfied with their purchases. He and his family reside at 115 Arden avenue.

Immediately after relinquishing control of his business here Mr. Pollock will go to Stockton to supervise the harvesting of his 180-acre potato crop. After this is finished he will go to Texas, where he will take care of some financial interests. He will later return to Glendale and engage in business here.

W. C. T. U. to Give Thanksgiving Dinner

The Thanksgiving meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. F. Wood, 1470 East Wilson avenue. Thanksgiving offerings in the form of jellies, canned fruits, and things that would be appreciated and enjoyed by elderly women are desired for this meeting as the offering will be given to the Ld Ladies' Home of Highland Park.

CHARTER DAY PROGRAM IS SUCCESS

Tuesday Afternoon Club Celebration Draws Big Attendance to New Clubhouse

QUAINT PERFORMANCE

Pioneers of Organization Introduced to Members by Mrs. Campbell

By GERTRUDE GIBBS

The size of the audience at the Tuesday Afternoon club this week proved the special interest attaching to Charter Day and to a program by the music section of the club, for after all the seats had been filled, members stood three deep at the rear of the hall.

Mrs. C. O. Pulliam, chairman of decoration, and music section members had provided a charming setting for the "Old Fashioned Garden" program by railing the platform with a white picket fence, twined with ivy and supporting blossoming marigolds, not forgetting a trellis and climbing rosebush.

The artists of the section, all professional or semi-professional, also had their "settings" of quaint old costumes, some the hoopskirted period of the "sixties," others going back to the colonial days. But each had a bonnet with a flower garden on it. It was a wonderful array of talent for any club to muster, the vocal soloists including Virginia Freeman, Helen E. MacMullin, Helen Graham Cole, Lela Hogan Draper, Lilian B. MacMullin, Riffa Leighton, Mrs. Edith Rogers Arnold and chorus, Florence Cowan Parker and chorus. Little Blossom Moore executed a pretty garden dance and Cecelia Mae Fischer a reading and dance, both quaintly costumed and both pupils of the Kellar school. With so much movement, color, and song it did not fail to delight the audience.

It did not begin however, until about 3 p. m. and the session had opened at 1:30 with community singing, led by Hugo Kirchoffer, and continued until 2:15. In the interval between, section meetings were announced, notices concerning a variety of matters were presented, the names of about fifteen newly elected members were read and Mrs. A. H. Montgomery gave considerable interesting data in regard to the Society Circus to b given Saturday afternoon and evening at the Elks' clubhouse.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, the president, introduced charter members present "who have stood by the club all through the years since the charter was received, November 10, 1908," and as she called their names they took their places in a line which finally stretched across the hall from south to north, the line including Mrs. J. M. Banker, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett (a past president), Mrs. R. A. Blackburn, (past president), Mrs. C. W. Burket, Mrs. A. K. Crawford, Mrs. J. C. Danford, Mrs. Fred Deal, Mrs. W. C. Fraly, Mrs. Edgar Leavitt, Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, Mrs. A. C. McIntyfe, Mrs. J. F. McIntyre, Mrs. P. S. McNutt, Mrs. C. J. Newcomb, Mrs. C. F. Parker, Mrs. C. O. Pulliam, Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan, Mrs. M. L. Tight, Mrs. Charles Temple, Mrs. A. W. Tower, Mrs. Frank Vesper, Miss Ruth Byram, Miss Ida Waite.

At the close of the program an adjournment was taken to the new club home at the corner of Lexington drive and Central avenue, where the corner stone was laid with appropriate ceremonies in the presence of a large proportion of the club membership some of whom afterwards made a tour of the partially completed building.

An account of this part of the program will be found on another page.

CANYON RAILROAD EXTENSION IS POSSIBILITY

Bonus Subscriptions of La Crescenta Are Being Collected

LA CRESCENTA, Nov. 15.—The extension of the Glendale & Montrose railway from Los Angeles avenue, the present terminus, to Pennsylvania and Anderson avenues promises to be a certainty. Subscriptions for the bonus are coming in rapidly and work will begin as soon as the entire amount is raised. The territory west of Los Angeles avenue was built up so rapidly that this extension is badly needed and will be the center of many new subdivisions, Honolulu Acres, a tract of 210 lots, placed on the market the first of October, being one of the most recent.

MC LEANS MYSTIFIED BY ARREST

Declare They Are Wondering at Cause of Visit of Patrolman

HE REFUSED TO LEAVE

Declare Policeman Awakened Them from Sleep After Trying Door

The matter of whether an officer of the law has the authority of forcing his way into anyone's home or sleeping quarters without reasonable suspicion of some kind or without a warrant, is one which is being greately resented by Mr. and Mrs. G. H. McLean of 1531 South Central avenue, owners of the building at that address, who were arrested after midnight Sunday on a charge, which in the records of the police department showed Monday, "disturbing the peace and resisting an officer," then "exhibiting a deadly weapon in a rude manner." Mrs. McLean's story of the entire affair is as follows:

"We had attended the automobile show in Los Angeles Sunday night and returning home, had retired. It was about 11:45 o'clock that I was awakened by someone pulling and banging on the door. Mr. McLean does not hear very well and dd not awaken until later. A flashlight was run along the door opening and the banging continued. We did not call out immediately but waited to see whether it was a burglar attempting to force an entrance. We are camping in the garage at the rear of Mr. McLean's place of business, on account of Mr. McLean's poor health and also in order to be near his work. We used the place merely to sleep in.

"When the noise continued and we thought that the door would be broken down Mr. McLean called out, 'Who is there?' The reply was that it was an officer." When asked what was wanted, Mrs. McLean states that the answer was that the officer wanted to see into the room and see who was there. "Mr. McLean explained that the room was being occupied by himself and wife, who were both in bed, and that he was the owner of the building. When the officer continued his demand to see into the room Mr. McLean told him to go to the windows at the side of the room occhpied by them, both of which were wide open. However, the policeman paid no attention and continued his attempts to open the door. Mr. McLean told him to get away from the door and stop making the noise. The door of the garage occupied by us was locked on the inside," according to Mrs. McLean.

Continuing, Mrs. McLean stated to a representative of the Glendale Press this morning, "If we had ever held any parties at our quarters, or had done any entertaining, there might have been a reasonable cause for suspicion in the mind of the officer, but we used the room merely to sleep in on account of Mr. McLean's health. The entire place had been closed all evening. I wish to correct the impression that the officer came to our place the first time with the intention of arresting us. When the noise continued Mr. McLean arose and went to the door with his automatic in his hand. The policeman pushed him aside and forced his way into the room, throwing the flashlight around. It was then that my husband said, 'Now this is enough. You get out of here or I will poke you with this.' The officer replied to this by saying, 'I will get you.' The complaint against us at the present time is that of without just cause threatening an officer with a deadly weapon.' However, the officer was not threatened until after he had forced his way into our room. I a mstill wondering what was the officer's motive in coming into the room after Mr. McLean had informed him who was occupying it.

"The officer went away then and when we were disturbed the second time we were under the impression that it was the same officer returning with a warrant. Mr. McLean asked who it was and he was informed that it was the police sergeant. My husband asked what was wanted and the sergeant replied, 'We want you.' He was then told that he was under arrest for disturbing the peace and when he questioned the officer as to whether they had a warrant for his arrest was told that a warrant was not needed. The officer then made the statement to Mr. McLean 'If you don't come out we will drag you both out.' It was then that my husband told the officer to 'go to—.' and that was the only abusive language that was used by him during the entire argument," Mrs. McLean stated. She said "we are going to fight the case to the limit, as we figure that it was entirely uncalled for."

INCREASING INTEREST IN BIG REVIVAL

Rev. Clifford Cole at His Best in Appeals to Sinners

GREAT SONG SERVICES

Topic Tonight a Novel One: "How to Get Married"

By O. L. KILBORN

Another of those wonderful song services by the Conner Trio opened the revival meeting at Central Christian church of Glendale, Tuesday night. Mr. Conner gets right hold of his hearers in his leadership and people just can't help singing. An even greater treat is promised for tonight.

Rev. Cole's sermon subject was "Why I Am a Christian." He handled it from two viewpoints, first telling why he was a Christian only instead of a denominationalist and then why he was a Christian instead of one outside of the church.

"I am a Christian only," he declared, "because I believe in Jesus Christ, and try to do as He commanded, as he commanded, because He so commanded; because as a Christian only I can preach the gospel in all its fullness, without fear of breaking up a meeting and because in so preaching I can tell sinners what to do to be saved, in the exact words of the New Testament; because the disciples exalted Christ above all as the head of the church, and because the salvation of the world depends upon the united efforts of all the followers of the Christ who prayed that 'all they might be one as the Father and I are one.'"

The text was from Peter's first epistle: "If a man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed, but let him glorify God in this name." Rev. Cole declared, from the second viewpoint: "I am a Christian instead of a sinner because I owe it to my God, the Father of all, who to show His great love for mankind sent His only begotten Son to suffer and die that sinners might be redeemed; I owe it to the Christ who saved me by the pouring out of His blood on Calvary; to the community in which I live, for that community deserves the best that every man can give it; to my family and myself. I say it deliberately and without fear of contradiction that a man cannot be a good citizen in the highest sense of the term without being a Christian."

Rev. Cole announced that his subject tonight will be "How to Get Married," and that his hearers would find that the term "marriage" has a wider significance than they might think it has. Thursday night's theme will be "Religion in Your Wife's Name." All the sermons so far have been intensely interesting to all who heard them and those to come will be even more so as the best thought of this highly gifted man of God is put into each one. A most cordial invitation is extended to all to come out and hear these plain and forcible expositions of God's word to man.

MIDGETS CLEAN ALHAMBRA TEAM

Latter Is First to Score on Local Lightweights

The Glendale lightweights completed an undefeated season yesterday when they conquered the Alhambra midgets, 9 to 6, at Alhambra.

Alhambra is the only team in the Central league that has scored on the local squad. Their touchdown came early in the second quarter. Glendale scored in the last three minutes of play—a touchdown by White and a perfect dropkick by Lovell from the twenty-yard line.

As a result of yesterday's game the lightweights will try for the Southern California championship. Last year they missed this trophy by a defeat at the hands of Huntington Park. Huntington Park was trimmed 101 to 0 by Whittier two weeks ago. Just who will oppose the local boys in the first playoff has not been officially announced but it is rumored that Inglewood will be given the honor.

Through some inadvertence the field day in which the commanderies of Knights Templar of Southern California will participate was announced as Sunday instead of Saturday. It will be a big affair and all resident and visiting knights not members of commanderies participating are invited to march in the parade at Hollywood at 11 a. m. with the Glendale Commandery of which George U. Moyse is commander.

BIG BAZAAR AT CENTRAL METHODIST

The ladies of Central Avenue Methodist church are planning a big bazaar for Friday afternoon and evening. Mrs. Charles Evans, chairman of ways and means, promises articles of all kinds for sale.

Mrs. M. Rose will have charge of the cooked foods and Miss Julia Goodsell with her Japanese girls will serve tea. A large attendance is desired.

WOMEN'S FORUM DINNER IS BIG SUCCESS

One Hundred and Seventy-five Men and Women Members of C. of C. Attend

The first women's forum dinner and get acquainted evening to be given by the members of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, in the banquet hall Tuesday night proved a great success, with 175 men and women members of the chamber and their friends present. The chief aim in view of the comittee in charge was that of an informal good time.

As the guests of the evening arrived they were handed the following rules of proceedure:

1.—Remeber! No formal introductions permitted!

2.—Smile and greet your neighbor.

3.—Do not converse continually with your wife! Give the other men a chance.

4.—Wear your professional or business card where it may be easily read by all comers.

5.—Become acquainted with at least six new members before dinner.

N. B.—A heavy penalty will be imposed for any violation of the above rules.

By order Women's Forum Committee.

As the guests were escorted through the hall into the banquet room they read the rules which did much to "break the ice" and make for a congenial goo dtime.

V. M. Hollister, president of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, called the meeting to order at 6:30 o'clock. The program was opened by the singing of "America," led by Mrs. Harry MacMullin, followed by an invocation by Mrs. Marie M. Yeoman. A very delicious five-course dinner was served, during the course of which Miss Bell, representing Hazen J. Titus "the fruit-cake king," who will locate "Fruit-Cake City" in or near Glendale in the near future, distributed to every guest a sample of this fruit-cake, which was very much appreciated.

The program following the dinner included a vocal solo by Mina Winzell. Miss Eleanor Miller, assemblywoman elect, of Pasadena gave an address on "Women in the Twentieth Century," the point brought out by her being that women are the same today as they were fifty or a hundred years ago, that it is not women who have changed, but conditions. Where a hundred years ago a great deal of a woman's time was given over to the weaving of cloth and making it into clothing, today this is done by machinery, and the woman, being industriously inclined turns her mind toward something else, and has drifted towards civic matters. She stated that the women have become more educated to the world outside of their homes.

A very delightful vocal solo was given next by Mrs. Harry M. MacMullin and was followed by an interesting address on "Woman's Place in Public Life," by Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, president of the Women's Study club of Southern California. The theme of her talk was the women's relation to politics. The evening's program closed with the community singing of "Auld Lang Syne," led by Mrs. MacMullin with Mrs. Pearl Curran as accompanist.

The decoration committee, which included Miss Ida Waite, Miss Annie McIntyre and Mrs. Nellie Scott, had arranged bouquets of varicolored dahlias throughout the hall. The guests of the evening included Judge and Mrs. G. Craig, Supervisor and Mrs. Henry W. Wright, Secretary William C. Dunkerley, of the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce and wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Orput, representative of the National Community Service, Inc.

AIRPLANE FIELD PROPOSED FOR GLENDALE

Glendale has a chance to secure the only official commercial airplane field in Southern California, according to a committee consisting of Edwin M. Fisk of Catron & Fish, airplane and engine company, Ivar L. Shogran of the Western Airplane corporation and Thornton H. Hamlin of the Photomap company, constituting a committee from the Commercial Aircraft association, which appeared before the board of directors of the chamber of commerce and explained how this city can secure this airplane activity.

In short, the plan of the committee is for the city of Glendale to purchase land for this field and to loan a portion of it for use for the freight and passenger airplane service, all of the revenue derived from concessions at this field to go to the city.

It was said Glendale is ideally situated for a feature of this kind, being sheltered from the ocean fogs by the Santa Monica range of hills. This would give the aviators a clear view upon entering the valley from the east, north or south. Regular passengre service is now being maintained between Los Angeles and San Francsico, and the southern terminus of this line might be at Glendale if the proposed field is established. Another line might soon run to Imperial valley and other points, while a mail and passenger line between the Atlantic and Pacific might soon be created, if present plans are carried out. These, with the establishment of additional mail, passenger and freight lines, might result in a large amount of business being done at the Glendale field.

It was suggested that at least ten airplane manufacturers and field companies might purchase ground in Glendale and move their equipment here just as soon as a proper field is assured. Some of these plants do business running up to several millions of dollars annually, it was said, and these would prove welcome additions to the industrial colony of this city.

For this commercial field a piece of ground 500 feet wide and 2000 feet long would be required. On account of the prevailing winds it is very desirable that the long way of this piece run north and south.

The chamber appointed a committee consisting of Roy L. Kent, City Manager Reeves and W. E. Hewitt to take over the matter and see what can be done toward securing the ground needed for the project.

EARLY HISTORY OF TUES. AFTERNOON CLUB IS TOLD

Laying of Cornerstone Is Marked by Fitting Ceremony Before Big Assembly

At the new home of the Tuesday Afternoon club of Glendale, on Lexington drive and Central avenue, the corner stone was laid Tuesday afternoon by the president, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, and the past president and chairman of the executive building committee, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson. The impressive little ceremony at which Elmer Elliott, the contractor, and H. E. Betz, his associate, assisted, was witnessed by a large group of members who stood while the program was given.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, head of the organization, who presided over the preliminary program, spoke appreciatively of the friends the club had discovered among the men of the city who had stood back of it in its hour of need, and other friends among newcomers who had shown no less fraternal spirit. She then called upon the representatives of the two daily papers of the city to deposit copies in the box to be encased behind the corner stone, A. T. Cowan responding with a week-end copy of the Glendale Daily News and a few words expressing his interest in the club. On behalf of the Glendale Daily Press, Miss Gertrude Gibbs, dean of the journalists of Glendale, deposited a copy of the day's issue with the good wishes of the paper, Mrs. T. D. Watson, wife of the manager, being a life member.

Mrs. Campbell then called upon John Hyde Braly, saying, "He has stood for everything that has been for the advancement of women. He stood by us before women's suffrage was granted and he kept at it until we got it. He has always loved the ladies."

Mr. Braly acknowledged the soft impeachment and admitted he had stood for womanhood for 70 long years; that he had longed for, prayed for, worked for two great things—the emancipation of woman politically and in every other way through the ballot; secondly, the downfall and burial of King Alcohol. "Thank God," said he, "I have lived to see those two things accomplished."

Commenting on progress made he reminded his audience that within his memory there had been districts in the United States in which little girls were not permitted to go to school. The boys went and the little girls sat on the steps to hear what was going on within. Finally came a time when they were permitted to attend for one hour a day after the boys got through. Said he: "It does my heart good to think how women have developed out from under the dominion of man, and man from the dominion of alcohol, and the time is coming when women are going to rule men. It is coming fast. I think I am the happiest man in the state, because on last Tuesday we redeemed the honor of the state of California that I love so well."

The interest of the past presidents in this day of hopes realized was voiced by Mrs. Campbell who called upon those present to deposit in the box the year books, representing their administrations. Responses were made by Mrs. Robert Blackburn, 1905-6 and 1909-10; Mrs. Mary G. Braly, 1910-11; Mrs. Alphonso W. Tower, 1911-12, 1919-20; Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, 1913-14, 1914-15; Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, 1915-16, 1916-17; Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, 1920-21 and 1921-22. Mrs. Frank G. Taylor, 1904-05; Mrs. Martha Morris, 1907-08; Mrs. Raymond Chase, 1912-13, have passed away. Their year books were deposited by officers who had served under them, Mrs. Banker performing the service for Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Church for Mrs. Morris, and Mrs. Helen Campbell for Mrs. Chase. Mrs. Edgar Pack, 1906-07 and 1908-09, who is now in Canada, was served by Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, and Mrs. William W. Ramsay, 1917-18 and 1918-19 by Mrs. E. D. Yard.

Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, under whose administration the club voted to purchase the site and build the clubhouse, expressed her pleasure in contributing to the corner stone treasury "on behalf of the 680 women who stood back of the administration during the purchasing of the property and the drawing of the plans."

Mrs. Campbell deposited the present year book of the club for 1922-23, explaining that it enfolded the printed program of the day.

Mrs. Andrew Findlay, chairman of life memberships then read and deposited a list of seventy women who have taken life memberships in the club.

Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley, vice president at large of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, the chief speaker of the afternoon, said in part:

"I have wished that I too had something to put into this box. That is denied me and so I want to put just a thought into your hearts that will remain when you have your home within these walls.

"I like to call it not 'clubhouse,' but 'club home,' for it is the home over which woman presides. I cannot agree with the gentleman who wished to see woman ruling over men. I never want that day to come, but want each and every interest of women to include all the members of the family, and as we build the hearthstones of our homes and bring to them all the finer influences, so we build our club home that from out this edifice may radiate something that will be a force and influence for right.

"Women have builded for many years for diverse reasons, sometimes for self interest, but those careers soon ended. Only those women who have love for their kind have ever builded high enough to reach the top and isn't this a wondrous age, for you and I are looking at the top. We are seeing women in places of power, responsibility, trust, not only in our own cities, but in the whole world, sitting in the seat of council in the league of nations. We are watching them fight for humanity's best interests and for the protection of the children of the world. And so we shall see women always pushing upward and onward."

Mrs. Campbell then introduced Mr. Elliott, paying a tribute to his patience and kindness and called upon Mrs. Hutchinson, as an equal partner in the great task, to deposit the treasure box. This Mrs. Hutchinson did with the words: "In the name of the devoted women of Glendale, those who stand for the highest ideals of womanhood, I deposit your treasure box to be opened years hence perhaps by your great grandchildren."

Mrs. Campbell then took a small mason's trowel and placed some mortar in the space reserved for the corner stone, saying: "In the name of the membership I take great pleasure in laying this stone, and may the ceremony of today be an inspiration to all those who have worked so well and faithfully and may it be a stimulant and tonic to all who will carry on the work of the future."

Mrs. Campbell explained that the trowel used would be gilded and be made one of the properties of the new clubhouse to be treasured because of the use to which it had been put.

Dr. C. M. Calderwood, president of the Glendale Ministerial association, made the dedicatory prayer, and the program closed with a vocal solo by Mrs. Greely Kolts, who sang "The End of a Perfect Day," by Carrie Jacobs Bond.

Mrs. Campbell, before dismissing the audience thanked all who had contributed to the day's program, the vocalists of the music section and their accompanist, Miss Gertrude Champlain, the boys of Glendale high manual arts department who contributed the lattice work fence used in the decoration of the stage, the service of the Newton Electric company in the lighting effects on the stage, the pupils of th Pearl Kellar school and others who had helped in a variety of ways.

ACACIA P. T. A. TO MEET FRIDAY

The Acacia avenue P. T. A. will meet Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the school. There will be a splendid musical program and the ladies will hold a cup and plate shower for the school.

DEATHS — FUNERALS

MALCOM McLAREN

Malcolm McLaren, a noted detective, passed away at his home, 303 North Jackson street on November 14 at the age of 57 years.

Mr. McLaren was born in Ottawa, Canada, and had lived in California for 11 years and in Glendale for the past 8 years.

He leaves a wife, Mrs. Alice B. McLaren, and three children, James and Robert McLaren and Mrs. Irene Flack, and a brother and sister, William McLaren and Mrs. Jessie Shuck.

Mr. McLaren was a very well known and noted detective. He solved the McNamara case and secured sufficient evidence upon J. B. McNamara and his brother to send them to the penitentiary for dynamiting the plant of the Los Angeles Times.

Until his retirement from active business life about a year ago, Mr. McLaren was employed by the district attorney's office. He was also the head of an organization known as the Malcolm McLaren Detective Agency, with offices in the Tajo building, Los Angeles.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the chapel at Grand View Memorial Park, with interment there. Local Elks' lodge No. 1239 will have charge of the service.

J. R. NASH COMPANY, HABERDASHERS, DOING WELL

The J. R. Nash company haberdashery at 1728 South San Fernando road, is now fairly launched into business and has enjoyed a gratifying patronage from the start. In addition to haberdashery there is a line of dry goods, shoes, and dainty notions of many kinds, particularly those for babies. Mr. Nash was for 30 years in the oil business and had retired, but the lure of business drew him and the Gateway district was so appealing to his business instinct that he just couldn't resist the impulse. This store filled a void in the Gateway's business offerings and that is one reason why it is so well received. Mrs. Nash, a most charming woman, is assisting her husband in conducting the business, and her personality adds much to the attractiveness of this new business place.

GILLETT TENT MEETING IS WELL ATTENDED

The meeting of Mary Jane Gillett Tent, No. 18, Daughters of Veterans, was very well attended on Tuesday night. The meeting was held in the American Legion hall, 610-A East Broadway.

Miss Merle Bowen was initiated, and several other applications were acted upon. Plans were furthered for the bazaar and cooked food sale to be given November 28 at the American Legion hall, both afternoon and evening. Mrs. Queen Danner is general chairman.

Mrs. Gertrude Griffin will have charge of the cooked food sale which will offer exceptionally good Boston baked beans and brown bread, cakes, pies and other goodies. There will be a grab bag in charge of Mrs. Dora Hall and Mrs. Hattie Tiffany. The fancy work booth will be taken care of by Mrs. Bowen and Mrs. Jennie Tincher. There will be several other booths and anyone desiring to donate to this bazaar may be assured that their donation will be greatly appreciated. Hot coffee will be served all during the afternoon and evening.

Quite a few members of the tent are planning to visit the Helen Jean Christie Tent, No. 17, at Los Angeles tonight. This tent is celebrating its fourth anniversary.

THURSDAY MORNING BIBLE CLASS TO OPEN

The opening session of the Thursday Morning Bible class for women will be held in the Glendale Presbyterian church on East Broadway at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The class is undenominational and interdenominational and is open and free to all women. A session of the class will be held each Thursday morning and will last for one hour. The teaching will be without fads or fancies or theories, just plain simple presentation of Bible truth.

For the convenience of mothers who may care to attend, the committee in charge of the class have arranged to have small children cared for in the bungalow during the session of the class.

The teacher of this class, Mrs. A. L. Dennis, is a resident of Los Angeles, where she is a member of the faculty of the Bible Institute. Her work is so interesting and popular that she is the teacher of a Bible class of several hundred women each Sunday morning in the Church of the Open Door. Mrs. Dennis is an authority on Sunday school methods and has been prominently recognized on the programs of county and state Sunday school conventions for a number of years past. She is reputed to be one of the strongest Bible teachers in California. A cordial invitation is extended to all women to attend the sessions of this class.

At the close of the afternoon refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

RIPLEY JACKSONS ENTERTAIN POSTOFFICE EMPLOYES

Captain and Mrs. D. Ripley Jackson of 1800 South Brand boulevard entertained all of the employes of the Glendale postoffice on Tuesday evening with a delightful party at their home.

Guests numbered 54 and the postoffice orchestra gave some very fine music for dancing.

Captain Jackson led in a number of songs and Oscar Wright sang a beautiful vocal solo. Newton L. Clarke also rendered a vocal number.

Interesting talks were given by Postmaster Jackson and Assistant Postmaster Hallett, superintendent of mails and foreman.

At the close of the evening Mrs. Jackson served a wonderful luncheon consisting of sandwiches, coffee, ice cream and cake. The delicious fruit cake was made by Hazen J. Titus of "Fruit Cake City."

FREE LANGUAGE TUITION OFFERED

"Globetrotters" and others who have travelled about know how essential it is to know one or more foreign languages. People who go abroad without studying the language of the country first, "feel lost," as the saying is. They can't express themselves properly and nobody understands them.

The Emerson School of Self-Expression, 730 South Glendale avenue, one of the most progressive educational institutions, announces that those who are anxious to take up a course in German or French—adults or children—may do so free of charge, providing that they join one of their other classes, for instance, self-expression, public speaking, piano, dancing, etc. All those interested in these courses in modern languages are requested to call at the office of the Emerson School, 730 South Glendale avenue, Glendale, California, or phone Glendale 970-R.

VOLLEY BALL IS WARMING UP IN INTERMEDIATES

Matters are getting interesting to members of the girls' midget volley ball teams of the two intermediate schools of Glendale. Monday's game resulted in a score of 40 to 28 in favor of Wilson avenue's team of which Miss Alice Lookabaugh is coach. Miss Fritch was coach of the Glendale avenue team and Miss Alice Foulke the referee. The players were; Glendale avenue—Jean Williams, Marguerite Chappel, Catherine Doll, Eunice Jones, Hattie Hyer, Naomi Marker, Mildred Reindl, Dorothy Page, Ruth Harwood. Wilson avenue—Virginia Clark, Bulah Lewis, Nancy Kilgore, Margaret Hamilton, Virginia Baudino, Marie McSpadden, Ruth Benner, Madeline Montgomery, Jessica Gribbon; substitute, Edith Elliot.

Christmas Postal Schedule Is Given

The superintendent of mails at the Glendale postoffice has worked out a schedule for the sending of holiday mail which will be of great value to citizens who want to make sure their packages arrive on time for December 25. As he gives it, mail should leave here as follows: For New England states, December 5; Atlantic states, middle and southern, December 7; eastern Mississippi valley, December 9; middle Mississippi valley, December 11; western Mississippi valley, December 13; Rocky Mountain states, December 15; Pacific states except California, December 17; Northern California, December 19; Southern California, December 21; local, December 22.

LUTHERAN CHURCH TO GIVE CHICKEN DINNER

The ladies of the Guild of the Lutheran church will give their second annual chicken dinner and bazaar at the Odd Fellows' hall on West Broadway, Friday evening. The dinner will be served between the hours of 5 and 8 o'clock. During and following the dinner those attending will have an opportunity to purchase the many beautiful Christmas things that have been made by the ladies during the past year. A number of the things to be offered are being donated by the various merchants of Glendale.

During the evening a number of musical and literary numbers will be given and other features will be provided. The dinner will consist of chicken, hot biscuits, gravy, mashed potatoes, jelly, beets, cream slaw, pumpkin pie and coffee.

A. W. Tyler of Chicago, Ill., who has been visiting his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Munson, at 357 West Broadway, left Tuesday for his home in the east.

Miss Celeste Churchill of Los Angeles was the guest of Mrs. H. Loren Mitchell of South Boynton street on Tuesday.

If you want strictly tailor-made garments, see Fred Minden, 108 South Maryland.—Adv.

THE WRIGHT LAW VICTORY

California sustained the Wright law, as this paper had predicted. The first figures indicated defeat for the measure, and the later information that a mistake had been made in counting the returns, was not a surprise.

The people of this state are law-abiding. This means, among other things, that they accept the will of the majority, and that they do not seek arbitrarily to nullify a statute, or set aside any part of the constitution. Prohibition of the liquor business has been made a part of the constitution. It was so made with every formality necessary to the purpose. It could not have been forced through by a minority. Clearly, it stands as representing the popular will. Attacks by the "wets" thus seem to be childish and futile.

Often the statement has been made that the best way to cause the repeal of a bad law is to enforce the law. Apparently the advocates of liquor do not desire prohibition subjected to this test. On the other hand, people who advocate prohibition are eager to have the test applied. There are many others who, in the beginning, had not favored prohibition, now deeply disgusted with the methods of the bootlegger. They believe that the purveyor of poison as a beverage, should be put out of business. Therefore they voted for the Wright law.

The law in question is simply an instrument for sustaining the constitution. It will put into the hands of the police of the cities and counties specific authority to act in harmony with the federal powers. Its adoption was wholly logical. No community could afford to announce that it declined to abide by the terms of the constitution, and refused to lend its aid to suppression of an out-lawed and intrinsically iniquitous traffic.

CONCERNING LAME DUCKS

Naturally there is speculation as to how the "lame ducks" of Washington are to be provided for by the administration. The theory seems to be taken for granted that some sort of obligation exists to take care of these decrepit birds, sore wounded by the ballots of the people who know them best. Perhaps something is wrong with the theory.

Men who seek elective office are not acquiring anything in perpetuity, even if successful. As to tenure, they have to take chances. If they do not please the voters who sent them there, and are recalled, it is difficult to see in what manner this makes them objects of charity. Doubtless voters do on occasion show poor judgment, ousting men of real merit, who in office have been useful to the country and to the administration. In such instances it might be good policy to provide for them, not out of pity, or as a rebuke to the voters, but for the sake of having their abilities applied in some other public way.

The one certainty about an elective office is that it does not bestow permanency upon the winning candidate. If he accepts with any idea to the contrary, soonor late, experience is sure to bring him a shock. Even so august a statesman as Lodge came painfully near to getting his shock recently.

When a man is deprived of office through the act of his constituents, he might as well accept the experience with a smile, as something almost inevitable, death and resignation being the ways of avoiding it. And if wise, while on the payroll, he will have an eye out constantly for a pleasant place in which to alight when the order to vacate reaches him.

AN INTERNATIONAL ALLIANCE

Dr. Nicola Tesla is a scientist of high achievement. Concerning all things electrical he speaks with authority. His genius is recognized. But Tesla calls to mind as markedly as any individual whose name might be cited, the line of Seneca. The ancient philosopher said: "There is no great genius without a tincture of madness."

A similar idea inspired the familiar couplet of Dryden:

"Great wits are sure to madness near allied,
And thin partitions do their bounds divide."

Tesla, casting his eye towards the future has made wondrous prophesies concerning the field of invention in which he is a leading figure. At the time of utterance, they seemed weirdly impossible of any real basis. Yet many of these prophesies have been fulfilled. Among them will be remembered one declaring that airships and torpedoes one day would be guided by a current directed from a distant point: that they could be sent untenanted on their journeys and made to carry out the human will.

But Tesla, wandering from the realm to which his activities have been confined, takes a position to which credulity cannot follow him. When he says that the world of the future is to be peopled by women alone, "pitiless, hard and cruel," he will be judged to have broken through the "thin partition" of the couplet. The deduction he draws is not scientific, is in no sense logical, fails to accord with any physical law, and is in fact, sheer chimera.

When Tesla permits his intellect thus to wander off the reservation, there is no occasion for taking the excursion seriously. He still has marvelous knowledge of the subject of electricity.

CITY AND COUNTY

Los Angeles county is in sore need of a jail. The present structure is a disgrace. It is so shamefully overcrowded that to keep it sanitary, and to give the inmates the attention to which they are entitled, is a hopeless task. Nevertheless the proposition to erect a new and adequate jail was defeated. The defeat was due to the country vote. The voters residing in the county, but outside the limits of Los Angeles city, were responsible for the defeat. Doubtless they had failed to recognize the exigency of the matter. It is not strange that they should have done so. They had not come in contact with conditions as these exist. Hence the city, conscious of the urgent necessity for a jail, must go without, because a minority residing at a distance was unaware of this, or indifferent to it.

In many instances the plan of setting up a city as a county has been found available. In no other way, perhaps, could the desires of the urban voters have been satisfied. They are enabled to go ahead with such improvements as may be demanded, doing this without cost to the outsider. At the same time the country folk, having a county government of their own, may control their acts in accord with local judgment, and without fear that city voters are trying "to put something over." It hardly seems just that country voters should be in a position to impose their desires upon residents of a city, this rule, of course, working both ways. Each group has its needs, and each is conscious of its needs, and yet either group may, in some important issue, be thwarted by the other.

SLOGANS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Originally a slogan was a battle cry.

Now they are chiefly used as war cries by business competitors.

Dr. Frank Crane

Originally the word came from the Highlands of Scotland. It was spelled "slaughgairm." "Slaugh" meant "army" and "gairm" meant "outcry."

When clans fought one another in those days, or when clans united to fight the Lowlanders or English, such things as uniforms were unknown, and in the heat and dust of battle it was possible to mistake friend for foe.

The war shout or slogan not only helped to hearten the attack, but identified the compatriot.

Present day slogans put out by business firms to describe their goods and arouse public interest are the modern form of attack on the public purse and serve to identify the product which is to be marketed.

The importance of a good slogan to a business is almost unbelievable.

Evidence of this importance is offered by recent prize contests. In the same week a candy company and an association of electric truck manufacturers offered thousands of dollars in prizes for the best slogans submitted.

For many lines of business the appropriate slogan is more important than the quality of the product to be marketed.

For example, cigarettes. How many blindfolded persons, do you suppose, could tell the difference between one of fifty brands of cigarettes and another by puffing at them successively?

The only way for these fifty sales organizations to identify themselves to their partisans and converts is to shout some clever word formula.

One tobacco is much like another—except to the expert—and tobacco manufacturers are hard put to it to beat their competitors' slogans. They make little effort, apparently, to beat their competitors' products. In most instances they are content to give the public an average product.

It is the slogan which sells it.

Nowadays it may be said that any idea which is expressed in such compact, brief, and trenchant form that it will cut its way into the average, inert mind, is a slogan.

A good slogan will carry a world war to a successful conclusion. "Make the world safe for democracy," had more to do with undermining German civilian morale and finishing off the German army's resistance, than politicians like to admit.

All of which shows that the human mind yields to the persuasive appeal of words.

Thinking is the hardest work in the world. The confused and timid mind of the many, when it finds a nice new Word, crawls into it as the hermit crab crawls into a whelk shell and is happy.

THE RIGHT WORD

QUERIES

"To, Too, and Two" Again

Helen E. Kepfield, Chicago, Ill.: "Will you kindly advise whether the following sentence is correct: 'The three twos of the English language are to, too, and two'? The particular point which occasions this query, is the correctness of the use of the word 'twos' as subject of the sentence."

Answer: On October 18th the answer to your query was published as follows: In the English language the three words that are pronounced like to are to, too, and two.

Has and Had

L. W., New York City: "Kindly explain thru your column when one should use 'He had known' and 'He has known'."

Answer: Has known brings the action from some time in the past right up to the present. The tense is called the present perfect. Had known symbolizes an action completely at some definite past time or before some definite past act. Examples: He has known about it for some time; He had known about it before he arrived.

"Verbal"

E. M. Reid, New York City: "My friends and I have had a number of discussions over the following frequently observed use of verbal: 'In addition to asking you to read the printed notices found in the bulletins, I should like to call your attention to these verbal announcements'. There is something like this printed on the order blanks used in the dining cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad System: 'Please write your orders. Waiters are instructed not to serve orders given verbally'. Would you not have used oral instead of verbal in both sentences?"

Answer: The right word is verbally, which means orally. Verbal is correct in the first sentence.

"Canine"

"A Reader", New York City: "A very common practice with reporters and writers and public speakers is to use the word 'canine' when meaning a dog or wolf. Is this correct? I always understood the word as an adjective only, meaning dog-like. What is correct in the matter?"

Answer: You are right with the exception that the word is used humorously for dog. A suggestion is offered "A Reader". The third sentence of the foregoing query should begin as follows: I have always understood. See "Has and Had" in this article.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

My friend came to me in much agitation.
His eyes red.
His manner disturbed.
In all respects troubled.
And he seemed in need of comfort and reassurance.

And then I asked my friend what thing troubled him.

And my friend said: "It is disgrace. I am ashamed."

And I said to my friend: "What have you done that is disgraceful?"

And my friend said: "It was not I. But my shame arises from the act of a member of my family."

And I said to him: "Were you a part of the thing that you say put shame upon you."

And he said: "No. But it was in my family. I feel I am disgraced."

And I said: "You are also a member of the human family. Do you feel you are disgraced because of all the shameful things done by members of the human family?"

And my friend was surprised that I should ask him such a thing. And then he said: "No. Of course not."

And then I said to my friend: "Was the shameful thing something done because of counsel or assistance you failed to render when it was needed?"

And he said again: "No."

And I said: "Did it arise because of your lack of sympathy and wilful lack of understanding?"

And again he said: "No." But he seemed to be thinking hard.

And then I said to my friend: "I believe you are not shamed by any act except your own, unless a shameful act is done because you were hard or unkind or not helpful or unsympathetic or withheld wise counsel."

And my friend seemed to be comforted. But again he thought deeply.

Then he said: "Is it not shameful when a member of your family does a shameful thing?"

And I said to him: "Not unless the doing of the shameful thing was brought about by lack of kindness and friendliness and sympathy."

And he said: "Am I not my brother's keeper?"

And I said: "In the sense that you are bound to render assistance to your brother, yes. In the sense that you are responsible for your brother's actions, no—unless your brother's actions were brought about by some omission or commission of yours."

And again he said: "I was only thinking of the shameful act itself, and the resulting humiliation and embarrassment. I had not thought so much before as to how it may have come about."

And I said: "That is a good thing to think about pretty deeply. For it may serve to soften your resentment now, and it may help in the future."

So my friend went away.

Comforted to some extent, I think. And yet wondering whether, after all, he was not in a degree responsible, through some committed or omitted act.

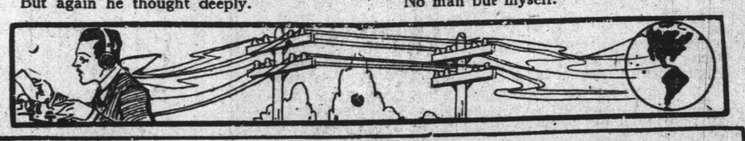
For if my friend or my brother offends through or because of some thing I have done, in anger, in wilful misunderstanding, in lack of sympathy, in selfishness, in failure to render aid or counsel, then to that extent I have to accept responsibility.

* * *

But it is well to be honest with ourselves. And, being honest, if we can absolve ourselves from selfishness, meanness, lack of sympathy, ungenerousness toward those about us, we may remember that old and unforgettable saying of Marcus Aurelius:

"No man can fix on me what is ugly."
No man but myself.



Songs of the Poets

Nocturne—By Thomas Bailey Aldrich (1837-1907)

Up to her chamber window
A slight wire trellis goes
And up htis Romeo's ladder
Clambers a bold white rose

I lounge in the ilex shadows,
I see the lady lean,
Unclasping her silken girdle,
The curtain's folds between.

She smiles on her white-rose lover,
She reaches out her hand
And helps him in at the window—
I see it where I stand!

To her scarlet lip she holds him,
And kisses him many a time—
Ah me! it was he that won her
Because he dared to climb!

A NEW COMET BUT YOU CAN'T SEE IT

By ISABEL M. LEWIS of the United States Naval Observatory.

The new comet recently discovered by Dr. Walter Baade of the Hamburg observatory will never come near enough to be seen by the naked eye, although it will be followed telescopically for some time to come.

Elements of its orbit have now been computed and have been announced by the Harvard college observatory. They indicate that this newly discovered body is not one of the periodic comets that are due to return to the sun this fall or winter.

Either this new comet has been drawn from interstellar space under the spell of the sun's attraction or it is moving in an elliptical orbit of enormous period, for the form of its orbit is practically that of a parabola.

Its nearest approach to the sun, at perihelion passage, occurred several weeks ago. At that time its distance from the sun was about 200,000,000 miles and this distance is now increasing as the visitor speeds away once more toward the outer limits of the solar system.

In the telescope this comet appears as a very small, fuzzy object devoid of tail. It is still located in the constellation of Cygnus a few degrees to the northeast of Albireo, the bright star at the foot of the Northern Cross, and it is moving in a southeasterly direction toward the constellation of Pegasus. It is of the tenth magnitude at the present time and so is visible in small telescopes, but it will continue to decrease in brightness from now on.

In order for a comet to become visible to the unaided vision its perihelion point must lie fairly close to the sun and it must be well-placed for observation from the earth. Comets that do not come within the orbit of Mars are rarely visible to the naked eye.

The pride of the comet, as of the peacock, is in its tail; but for a comet to develop a conspicuous tail a comparatively near approach to the sun is essential, unless the body is exceptionally large and luminous.

A few times in the course of a century comets of exceptional size pass close to the sun and then develop spectacular features that cause them to strike terror to the hearts of the ignorant and superstitious who see in these erratic visitors a sign of ill-omen.

Among civilized nations, however, this fear of comets has practically vanished in the light of scientific knowledge.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

INGRATITUDE OF WOMAN

[New York Tribune]

Colonel Harvey has done a real service in reminding man of the original plans and specifications by which the first woman was laid down. Plainly she was designed as and through many early ages continued to be a helpmeet to man. If perhaps a suggestion of a soul passed over into her along with Adam's rib it was not of sufficient importance to be noticed by commandments or affect her status in the universe.

Man's responsibility toward her was clear and simple—much like that of a responsible mechanic toward a useful mechanical contrivance today. No need to bother about her development. When she wore out, replace her. Regarded from the exclusively masculine point of view, she was undoubtedly the greatest labor-saving device ever invented.

But women, born to be ungrateful, refused to accept this theory. They have persisted, year in and year out, in trying to grow souls. Thence has flowed practically all our troubles: the woman problem, the servant problem, flapperism. The new decalogue that Colonel Harvey demands for women is the least of man's worries.

Clearly the time has come for taking a stand. Women say they must have souls. But why must they? Or, if they must, cannot a new woman be invented out of steel and springs, or perhaps out of ectoplasm, which will restore to man his dear, old, hustling helpmeet of the Pentateuch, the Zend Avesta and the Talmud? Isn't this the idea toward which the colonel, in his sly and subtle way, would lead his fellows?

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Votes on measures concerning the welfare of ex-service men proved that the people of California are just as warmly as ever concerned in keeping every actual or implied pledge. They had joined in the promises that rang in the ears of the departing soldiers. They do not desire those promises in any measure repudiated. If they feel this way about obligations personal to themselves, it is to be assumed that they hold the debt of the country at large towards the soldiers in precisely similar regard.

HENRY JAMES

There was a bonus bill, so called, passed by congress. No provision had been made for raising the money essential to carrying out the terms of the bill. Congress had been assured that unless such provisions were incorporated in the measure, the executive veto awaited. Despite this warning congress went through the motions of passing the bill. That is, it posed as doing that which it knew it was not doing. It simulated a friendship of which no trace was to be found upon analysis of the legislation which had been the instrument of expressing what was meant to be accepted as a kindly sentiment. Blame for failure of the bonus was sought to be placed upon President Harding. It did not belong there, and it failed to stick.

Something akin to political lightning struck congress a little later. The next congress will be different. The intimation is strong that it will pass a bonus bill, pass it over a veto if necessary. Yet congress should remember that the former bill would have been useless in the form adopted even had it gone through all the formalities of passage and presidential approval.

Armistice day Woodrow Wilson paid his respects, if such his sentiments may be termed, to the senatorial group that has prevented the United States from going forward in the cause of peace. One fine and tangible reason for not releasing the prisoners is to be discerned in the character and conduct of their friends.

Poison is the agency of the lowest type of assassin. The one resorting to it is left without shadow of excuse, the nature of the crime revealing malice, deliberation, and an extremely dangerous and wholly sane cunning.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

Just because I have a car and a dog and carry a cane on Sundays and in other ways manifest a normal Americanism, the man who runs the furnaces and cuts the lawns for a group of us householders regards me as a financier of great ability. Therefore he asks me questions about the best manner in which to salt down his savings from time to time. In so doing he discloses the slender margin on which his affairs are conducted. Last night I couldn't stand it any longer.

"See here, Joe," I said. "You have just told me to buy you another $1000 bond. Where the dickens do you get the money?"

Joe scratched his head. He seemed not to understand my question.

"Why," said he, "I just save it. That's all."

So I went into a discussion of Joe's budget. He accounted to me for every penny that he and his wife make each month, luck-pennies and unexpected tips being excluded. He works every day. She works two half-days each week for our neighbors and does one day's wash. They have three children who always seem well clothed and are certainly well fed, for they are as stalwart as so many little Clydesdale horses. They pay rent, insurance, and lodge dues.

"But," I said, "if that schedule is accurate, then you pay out each month just $1 more than you take in. Yet you buy bonds."

Joe explained, nor did he seem to think that the explanation was at all out of the ordinary. Mrs. Joe, he said, was a forehanded and determined woman. She had set her mind on having a little place of their own on which they could end their days. To get that, saving was needful.

"So she said we would have so many dollars each month," said Joe.

But two months passed and not a dollar had been saved. At the end of the month there were no dollars. Mrs. Joe reversed the procedure. Now she saves the money as it comes in, dollar by dollar. She makes what there is left pay the bills. There are months, Joe said, when they seem to be a little slim, and they get along without a lot of things that they want, and a loose, dissipated nickel is unknown in the home.

"But we always save the money," said he with pride. "And we never owe a cent on the first of the month."

He doesn't know it, and I am not going to tell him. But Joe and Mrs. Joe have saved more money this year than two out of the five householders for whom he works. Unless our town banker is being fooled.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

The peachmond, a new fruit which combines the luscious taste of the peach with the tang of the almond, has been produced by Dr. Juan Balme, Mexican plant breeder.

Young wild pigs all have longitudinally striped coats, but young domesticated pigs do not have these markings.

The Missouri river drains a territory equal to that embraced in all the states south of New York and east of the Mississippi, except Indiana and Illinois.

Some 22,000,000 pounds of carbon black made from natural gas is used in this country every year in the production of automobile tires.

Mt. Katmai, in Alaska, is the largest active volcano in the world.

The odor of cinnamon is due largely to the presence of about 2 per cent of a volatile oil containing cinnamic aldehyde.

Chimneys and smokestacks at Salt Lake City must be built from 10 to 20 per cent higher than is necessary at sea level, because of the diminished atmospheric pressure.

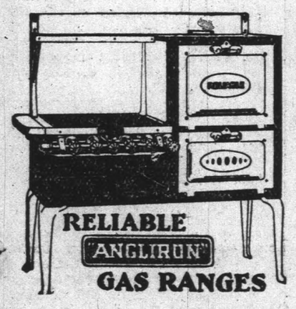
Could You Imagine

heating your room with the burner of your gas heater taken out and suspended in air?

What are the advantages of smooth cooking tops found on some Gas Ranges? Is it not for the purpose of making one burner do the work of two, thereby getting a more even distribution of heat with the same gas consumption?

Do you think the body of your gas heater or the smooth top on your range chills the flame from the burners.



This Reliable Gas Range

has non-rustible, heat-resisting oven bottom and linings.

It Bakes, Broils, Fries or Stews while you spend your afternoons at the matinee.

Money to Loan

PICK OUT YOUR HOME
Anywhere in Southern California
I'LL HELP YOU BUY IT!
If you can spare $30 per month, ($1 per day) above your present expenses I will help you finance the purchase of a $5000 home.
By this method my clients find that they obtain lower prices from owners; they are paying their rent to themselves; they are paying several hundred dollars less interest and they are acting as their own broker and banker.
I will help finance the purchase of any property to cost from $1000 to as high as you care to go at less than 6 percent net cost to you for the use of the money needed and all services rendered. The payments you can make each month will govern the extent to which I can serve you.

BUSINESS WOMEN ENJOY PLEASANT PROGRAM

Miss Jennie Freeman Gives Conversational Talk on Trip Abroad

Members of the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club enjoyed Tuesday evening one of the most pleasant programs of the year though it was entirely informal.

Miss Jennie Freeman, head of the English department of the high school gave a little conversational talk about her trip abroad the past summer, especially the literary shrines of England and Scotland, which she visited and in which she found inspiration. She traveled alone and recommended it to anyone who has a definite program to cover. The pleasure of such a trip, she said, is diveded between having your expectations confirmed by finding the things you expect to see and the new things you discover. The lake country and especially Grassmere, the home of Wordsworth, was of special interest because the great poet left there an indelible impress of his personality much as Emerson did in Concord, she said. This was not so true of Stratford on Avon, where the local inhabitants accept Shakespeare's greatness not of their own knowledge but because the world so esteems him and has told them so. Ann Hathaway's cottage, so far from being in a class by itself, is like dozens of other cottages and is not preserved as a shrine. Postal cards were passed around which pictured some of the places Miss Freeman visited.

It would be impossible to reproduce the many intimate details of travel with which she entertained her audience or the total of her impressions of the countries visited, their economic conditions and their attitude toward other countries, particularly America. But she came home with a renewed respect for and loyalty to her own country and the men of America never before looked so good to her.

Members who failed to be there missed a great treat. Miss Freeman's talk constituted the entire program except that members were called upon by the president, Dr. Brown, to tell something of their wor kand these personal reports proved most entertaining, particularly the response of Dr. Brown herself, who told the impelling cause which led her to the study and pratice of medicine.

QUEBEC, CANADA.—The province of Quebec has purchased a gram of radium for $100,000. It will be used for the treatment of disease.

American Woman May Become Duchess.

Marchioness Curzon may become a Duchess by the elevation to a Dukedom of Lord Curzon, who retains his portfolio in the Ministry of Bonar Law. This will be the first elevation to a Dukedom since 1874. Marchioness Curzon is the daughter of the late J. Munro Hinds, of Alabama, former American Minister to Brazil. Her first husband was the immensely wealthy Alfred Duggan, of Buenos Aires, who died. She married Curzon in 1917.

VINES SHOULD BE SUPPORTED

Vines cannot be grown economically without some form of support, asserts F. T. Bioletti, professor of viticulture in the University of California, in circular No. 252, entitled "Support for Vines," just issued by the University of California agricultural experiment station. With some varieties and some forms of pruning it is possible to obtain fair results without even the ordinary grape stakes, but the cost in extra labor, deferred bearing and imperfect vines is greater than that of suitable staking or trellising and requires exceptional skill and experience.

Circular No. 252 describes proved methods of arranging supports for head-pruned, cane-pruned and cordon-pruned vines and modifications which may be used to advantage in special cases. Materials necessary and cost of labor are indicated and specifications given in the publication, covering the cost of staking or trellising a 40-acre vineyard under each of the four different methods. Illustrations show graphically proper methods of sharpening and driving stakes, methods of attaching and tightening wires and methods of planting to avoid injury in staking.

PAGE-STONE, INC., SUCCEEDS HART REALTY CO.

D. W. Stone and Fred C. Page Take Over Business of Concern

D. W. Stone of Los Angeles and Fred C. Page of Medford, Oregon, both of whom are thoroughly acquainted with the real estate business, are successors to the Hart Realty company, 113 East Broadway. Hereafter this firm will be know nas the Page-Stone, Inc.

Mr. Hart, who is well known in real estate circles of Glendale, will remain with the company in a salesman capacity. He steps down from the leadership of this firm in order that he may devote more time to the business of the Hart & Garnsey Insurance company, the operation of which has been somewhat handicaped recently on account of the increase in the real estate business.

Now that he is footloose, Mr. Hart intends enjoying a vacation, which he has been unable to take up to this time.

CITY PRINTING

NOTICE OF PUBLIC WORKS

Public notice is hereby given that the Council of the City of Glendale, California, on the 2nd of November, 1922, did, at its meeting on said day, adopt Resolution of Intention No. 1733 to order the following improvement to be made on a portion of

from the westerly line of Pacific avenue to the westerly line of Tract No. 3789 as per map recorded in Book 47, Page 38 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California, lying within the limits of the City of Glendale.

That the public interest and convenience require, and it is the intention of the Council of the City of Glendale, to close up, vacate and abandon for street purposes, that portion of Kenneth Road more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Lot 1, Tract No. 3879 as per map recorded in Book 47, Page 38 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence northwesterly along the northwesterly prolongation of the easterly line of said Lot 1, to its intersection with a line drawn seven (7) feet northerly from and parallel to the northerly line of said Lot 1; thence westerly along said line so drawn to its intersection with the southerly line of Kenneth Road; thence easterly along the southerly line of Kenneth Road to the point of beginning.

The district to be assessed to pay the damages, costs and expenses for the said improvement is described in and reference is hereby made to Resolution No. 1733 for further particulars of said work.

A SONG OF TODAY

Live in today.
Nor count the future's sorrow.
Live in today,
Nor dream the future's pain,
Live in today,
There may be no tomorrow,
Today's delights
Thou mayst not know again.

Smile in today!
Whate'er the morrow brings thee,
Smile in today,
While yet thy heart is glad,
Smile in today,
Thy soul the harp that rings free,
Smile in today,
Tomorrow may be sad.

Life's harp today
Is tuned to notes of gladness.
And happiness
The sweetest notes may raise;
Tomorrow strikes
The wailing strings to sadness,
And Memory
But mournful music plays.

AT THE THEATRES

"BROADWAY ROSE" AT GLENDALE THEATER

Among the much talked of features of Mae Murray's recent photoplays, "Peacock Alley" and "Fascination," was the dazzling array of gowns that the blonde star wore in those productions. In her latest picture, "Broadway Rose," now presented by Robert Z. Leonard at the Glendale theater, she is said to wear costumes that will make even the most fortunate woman gasp with envy. And the secret has leaked out that practically all of these gowns were made from Miss Murray's own designs.

"I find that all the soft music in the world is of no help to me in catching the necessary mood in acting for the camera unless I have the feeling that the costume I am wearing is the one exactly suited to that mood in color, design and appropriateness," says Miss Murray.

"CLARENCE" AT THE T. D. & L. THEATER IS GOOD SHOW

The T. D. & L. theater fairly rocked with laughter last night at the first local showings of Wally Reid's latest picture, "Clarence." This is indeed a good show—one of the best seen here in a long time. It is a picture to delight the entire family. No one can make a mistake by attending this performance as can easily be adjudged and acclaimed by the hundreds who saw it last night. With Mr. Reid are a goodly number of Paramount players of note including Agnes Ayers, May McAvoy and Katherine Williams. Kinograms, latest events of the news in motion, and the comedy, "Alababa and the Forty Thieves," complete a truly splendid enterainment.

MADONNAS AND MEN AT UNITED THEATER IN EAGLE ROCK

New York's staid theatre audiences received somewhat of a shock recently when "Madonnas and Men," a stupendous photodramatic production, was given its premier presentation at the 44th Street theatre. The remarkable photodramatic story of ancient and modern times, "Madonnas and Men," is to begin an engagement at the United theatre of Eagle Rock Thursday.

Opening with a few massive scenes of ancient Rome the story quickly turns to modern times and shows that the desires of the times and respect for womanhood is much the same now as it was when the Christian Martyrs were sacrificed to make a Roman holiday.

HI-Y GROUPS OF METHODISTS HAVE "FEED"

The various Hi-Y groups met Tuesday night at the First Methodist church for their regular monthly "feed," the leaders of the groups being Howard Butterfield, G. Edwin Murphy, P. L. Hatch, W. G. Boyd, Bert Rolf and Dickson Link.

The senior group under Mr. Murphy did all of the "k. p." work, including the decorating of the tables with African marigolds. Covers were laid for 63.

Mrs. W. G. Boyd and Mrs. Rex Kelley, wife of the secretary, prepared the dinner and the boys served it.

The junior group under P. L. Hatch had charge of the entertainment. They sprung quite a surprise by having Al Brown's five-piece orchestra, which played several numbers during the course of the evening. The balance of the program included a cornet solo by Ivon Dow; a Marimba solo by Dallas Kalbaugh and a monologue, impersonating a Swedish lumberjack, by Charles Jacobs of Occidental college.

The Hi-Y quartette made its first appearance and was very well received, its personnel being Bob Carver, Ivon Dow, Harold Jones, Paul Edmonds.

The speaker of the evening was Harold Wagner of Occidental college, who talked on "What the College Man Expects from a High School Graduate." This proved very interesting.

DUTY

The duty of a retail lumber yard does not consist only in selling lumber. To consider carefully the individual requirements of each customer, to recommend only those materials which satisfactionly fill those requirements.

To conscientiously advise our customers on the various building problems that may arise.

In addition to the above the use of our complete filing system is available, by means of which the prospective builder can get in touch with contractors, carpenters, builders, plasterers and cement workers.

These are functions which this firm consider its elementary duties.

NOTICE OF AWARD OF CONTRACT

Pursuant to Statute and to Resolution of Award of the Council of the City of Glendale, California, adopted the 6th day of November, 1922, directing this notice, notice is hereby given that the said Council, in open session, on the 2nd day of November, 1922, opened, examined and publicly declared all sealed proposals offered for the following improvement, to-wit:

The improvement of a portion of Kenneth Road, Sonora Avenue, Ruberta Avenue, Winchester Avenue, Raymond Avenue, Thompson Avenue, Irving Avenue, Allen Avenue, Linden Avenue, Elm Avenue and Alameda Avenue, as described in Resolution of Intention No. 1624 passed by said Council on the 3rd day o August, 1922, to which said Resolution reference is hereby made for a description of said work, and of the district to be assessed therefor.

The Council of the City of Glendale determines that serial bonds shall be issued to represent assessments of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars or over for the costs of said work or improvement; said serial bonds shall extend over a period ending nine (9) years from and after the second day of January next succeeding the date of said bonds, and an even annual proportion of the principal sum thereof shall be payable by coupon on the second day of January every year after their date until the whole is paid; and the interest shall be payable semi-annually by coupon on the second days of January and July, respectively, of each year at the rate of seven per cent per annum on all sums unpaid until the whole of said principal and interest is paid.

Said bonds shall be issued in accordance with the provisions of an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An Act to provide a system of street improvement bonds to represent certain assessments for the cost of street work and improvements within municipalities and also for the payment of such bonds," approved February 27, 1893, and of all Acts supplementary thereto and amendatory thereof.

And thereafter, to-wit: On the 6th day of November, 1922, awarded the contract for said work to the lowest regular responsible bidder, to-wit: Hugh Cornwell and John W. Henderson, at the prices specified for said improvement in their proposal, on file for said improvement, to-wit:

Grading, per linear foot	$ .96
Gutter, per square foot	.21
3-inch oiling and macadamizing	.09¾
Curb, "Class B," per linear foot	.50
Sidewalk, per square foot	.17
4-inch Cast Iron Pipe, per linear foot laid	1.50
8-inch Matheson Joint Pipe, complete	3250.00

And that said award has been approved by the Mayor of the said City of Glendale.

Clerk's office, City of Glendale, California, 8th day of November, 1922.

Editor Glendale Press.

Dear Sir: I wish to take this opportunity in behalf of the chiropractic profession, and in my own behalf to express my sincere appreciation to your paper, the many friends of chiropractic, and my own friends, for the courteous way both you and they have supported our campaign for a chiropratic bill.

While we appreciate the confidence shown by the overwhelming majority at the polls last Tuesday, at the same time we realize our greatest fight is still to come.

Owing to a lack of any regulation of schools up to the present time, the responsibilities of the first board of examiners will be difficult and for that reason we covet the patience and indulgence of our friends until such time as proper regulation and control can be established.

ONE OF A FAMOUS BATTERY FAMILY

WITH the opening of the Sherman-Bond Auto Electric Company, Glendale automobile owners are provided with the famous "Dreadnaught Gould Storage Battery and Service," known the world over for its long life, durability and dependability.

The Gould Battery for automobiles is just one of the efficient members of the Gould family. The Gould automobile battery, with the dreadnaught plates, is built in the same manner as the Gould Storage Batteries that supply power for emergency wireless systems on Uncle Sam's battleships, cruisers and other vessels.

Thousands of motorists know the Gould automobile battery, the battery that demonstrated longest life by owner's records in the recent nation-wide Gould endurance contest.

When the big city power stations are in trouble; when railway lighting generators stop running; when submarines draw on the power that propels them under water—there's a rugged, reliable Gould ready to supply dependable power when power is needed most.

Gould storage batteries supply emergency power for railway and city lighting systems from coast to coast. This service is one of the most critical tests of battery quality. In time of need the current must not fail.

This same quality is built into the Gould Starting-Lighting Battery for your car.

The Sherman-Bond Auto Electric Company are housed in a building constructed with every facility for rendering the best possible battery service. There's a Gould Battery made for every car. Recent tests showed that the average life of Gould Auto Batteries is four years and one month.

You are welcome to call and inspect our plant. We want you to know more about Gould Batteries and Service.
